Jug in Shetter's Auto at Grand Detour

TESTIMONY AGAINST EX-DIXON MAN

Teacher on Trip Was Witness for State In Trial Today

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Sycamore, Ill., April 17.—Miss Ruth Talcott, a teacher in the Tiskilwa, Ill., schools and a former student at the Illinois State Teacher College of Dekalb, today testified for the prosecution, but proved a good witness for the defense in the manslaughter trial of E. A. Shetter, Dekalb jeweler, formerly of Dixon, whose automobile killed William Jay of Moline, Illinois, on the Lincoln Highway on September 21, 1924.

She testified that on the day that the Shetter motor party was at Grand Detour, Shetter had one drink of grape juice. She said she also drank grape juice. Although testifying for the state on direct examination that Shetter was intoxicated at the time of the accident, she admitted on cross-examination that he was not drunk.

Says He Drove Fast.
Shetter drove at a fast rate on the Lincoln Highway, she testified. She testified that Shetter and the little daughter, Alice, and Miss Talcott left Shetter at Rochelle, the teacher testified. She said there was a quarrel which led to Shetter's family leaving the car, but the defense objected and the testimony was stricken out. Shetter drove alone from Rochelle, she said, and she and Mrs. Shetter and child followed in a taxi.

The state brought out that there was a jug in the Shetter car at the time they left Grand Detour. Miss Talcott was on the stand all morning.

Veil Smith, Rockford, world war aviator, was the star witness for the state yesterday when additional evidence was introduced by the prosecution.

Mr. Smith, an employee at the Malta garage, was summoned immediately after the accident to clear the wreckage from the cement highway.

Under Influence of Liquor.
Questioned by State's Attorney Casius Poust, Smith asserted that Shetter was under the influence of liquor when he (Smith) arrived on the scene.

Smith assisted in caring for Jay's body and also towed Shetter's wrecked car to the Malta garage. Shetter's car was ditched after it crashed into the Moline party engaged in repairing a tire on their machine which was parked along the highway.

Prosecutor Poust also called Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Breder, Chicago, who were occupants of the car driven by Jay, to the stand Thursday. Both testified that Shetter was intoxicated and entirely responsible for the accident.

Merciless cross-examination by Attorneys Thomas H. Cliffe and Lowell B. Smith, in charge of the defense, failed to change the facts as stated in the state testimony.

On Saturday morning defense witnesses are scheduled to take the stand.

There is little hope of the case reaching the jury before Tuesday or Wednesday of next week, according to information available today.

Aerial Police Force for Chicago Is Chief's Plan
By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, April 17.—Plans for a complete aerial police force in the Chicago Metropolitan area are under consideration of Morgan A. Collins, chief of police.

A force of 20 fliers with a series of planes at the Municipal Landing Field would be utilized in the plan. The air police would cooperate in pursuit of thieves, assist in fighting fires in shopping centers, make topographic studies and locate lake wrecks of vessels in distress.

CONFESSED SLAYER OF CHILDREN IS TOO WEAK FOR HEARING

Chemists' Report Bears Out Story Told By Mrs. Cunningham.

Crown Point, Ind., April 17.—(By the Associated Press.)—Mrs. Anna Cunningham, 49 year old Gary, Ind., widow, who has confessed she poisoned three of her children and tried to end her own life so they could "join her husband in Heaven," still was too weak today for a preliminary hearing on the charge that she murdered her son Walter.

County Prosecutor August Bremer pointed out today that the report of Purdue University chemists, received last night, corroborated Mrs. Cunningham's confession. They found a large amount of arsenic in the vital organs of Walter Cunningham, but none in the organs of Harry Cunningham, the prosecutor said. Mrs. Cunningham, while admitting she poisoned Walter, Isabelle and Charles Cunningham, denied that she had given Harry any poison. She also told of giving poison to David, Jr., who now is in a Chicago hospital where physicians are fighting to save his life, but said she did not poison her only surviving daughter, Mae, because she did not love Mae enough.

Has Collapsed Twice.
She only poisoned the children she loved best, the woman declared in her confession and took of the poison herself so they could "join Pa in Heaven."

Twice Mrs. Cunningham has collapsed and been found in an apparent cataleptic state since she was taken into custody in Chicago last Saturday and later turned over to the authorities of Lake County, Ind. She had recovered today from the effects of the collapse yesterday except that she still was so weak that Prosecutor Bremer said no attempt would be made today to take her before a justice of the peace on the murder charge.

Plans for a sanity test are known to be under consideration by Mrs. Cunningham's lawyers, employed by Bremer, said no such test would be permitted until the grand jury has acted. Mr. Bremer expects that the preliminary hearing before the justice grand jury which convenes April 27 and after the grand jury acts, then the defense may have a sanity hearing if they desire.

Judge and Mrs. Robert H. Scott have returned from an extended tour of Florida and the southern states the trip being made by auto.

GLEE CLUB FROM COE COLLEGE WAS HIT WITH CROWD

Concert at Presbyterian Church Here Pleased Large Audience.

The concert given by the Coe college glee club in the Presbyterian church Thursday evening revived the spirit of student days for many old college men and women present, some of whom declared it to be the best glee club concert they ever heard.

Certainly the chorus of 24 voices was admirably balanced and well trained, as well as full of the pep that puts the glee in glee clubs. The program presented a breadth of range that left satisfaction for every taste in music and the numbers were so well rendered that the large audience recalled the singers after every number, doubling the length of the program. The generosity on the part of the glee club in responding to encores added greatly to the enjoyment of the excellent concert and was appreciated by the audience.

The glee club's first number, Lehmann's "Long Ago in Egypt," assured everybody that quality would not be lacking in the evening's music. Henschel's "Morning Hymn" followed, adding beauty to the mysticism and oriental color of the opening selection. In response to the first encore, "The Boy with the Little Red Drum" introduced the rollicking fun of the college boys which grew more irresistible as the program proceeded.

The religious selections were so free from denominationalism as to be ecumenical in character. "The Church in the Valley by the Wildwood" being sung in response to the encore after the difficult "Gloria" from Farmer's mass in B flat had been sung in the original Latin, a finished rendition of the inspired masterpiece made all the more remarkable on account of the absence of sopranos. Bach's "Now Let Every Tongue" preceded the singing of the "Gloria."

The lighter songs of sentiment and sheer lyrical beauty included "Come, Come Again, Sweet Love," by Dowland, "Now is the Month of Maying," by Morley, Andrews' "English Hunting Song" and "The Bells of St. Mary's," by Adams. Among the encore numbers was "Swing Along," a plantation melody that gave the boys a chance to display their ability to harmonize with a swing that became almost jazzy at times.

Good chorus work is to be expected from a glee club, though the program of Wednesday night went a bit beyond expectations in quality in that respect. The surprise was in the solo numbers and the quartette. Boys of college age seldom have the presence and the training to excel as soloists. Harold Reeves, the blind tenor soloist of Coe college, has a voice of unusual quality and range and sings with an appreciative expression not often heard. "I Hear a Thru at Eve," by Cadman, was an exquisite number as rendered by Mr. Reeves. Gerald Pringle, baritone, sang with the spirit and assurance that were required for a song of the dash and vigor of "Why Should I?" by Rall. Both gentlemen were enthusiastically encored.

The male quartette topped the list among the marvels of the evening. Four good singers can frequently be found in a glee club, but they do not always balance in a quartette. Claude Newcomb, Lionel Raymond, Gerald Pringle and Harry Lawrence introduced themselves in a whimsical prelude to their quartette number that was highly amusing and well done. They sang "If Winter Comes," by Tennent, with such consummate skill that the audience applauded to the echo. Repeated encores brought the kind of songs a glee club audience likes to hear.

A lyrical paraphrase of Gene Field's "Peach of Emerald Hue" left the audience expecting the "tale of woe" line when the song ended without it. The very funny "I Don't" list of student virtues was another song in like strain.

John Miller was the reader of the evening. His first selection was a brief one act play by Percival Wilde, entitled "The Finger of God," a dramatic recitation of the mastery of conscience over the affairs of a man who had been honest too long to steal. Later in the program Mr. Miller read three selections in Italian dialect and costume, "Ball Game Episode," "Rosa," from George Behan's well known play, and "Guilpep d'Barber," by Dale. Mr. Miller's work, both in straight dramatic reading and in character impersonation, was excellent. He responded to an encore with a Greek ballad.

ACCUSED MAN'S HOME SET AFIRE PARTLY BURNED

Probe Blaze at Home of Former Indiana Klan Official.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Indianapolis, Ind., April 17.—The large home in Irvington, a suburb of D. C. Stephenson, banished Grand Dragon of the Ku Klux Klan in Indiana, indicted in connection with alleged attacks on Miss Madge Oberholzer, who died on Tuesday from effects of poison she administered following the alleged attack, was partially destroyed by fire today. The fire is believed to have been of incendiary origin. Two cans of kerosene and one of gasoline were found in the wrecked house by firemen.

An explosion which broke all the windows in the house was heard just before flames were seen by neighbors. A short time before the explosion automobiles were seen in the yard in the neighborhood, who attached no significance to his incident until after the explosion.

Stephenson has been living in a downtown hotel for several weeks and no one was believed to be living in the house.

Miss Madge Oberholzer, whom Stephenson is charged with assaulting with intent to kill, assault with intent to rape, malicious mayhem and with conspiracy to kidnap was buried yesterday.

Stephenson yesterday entered pleas of not guilty in criminal court after motions to quash the indictments were overruled. Earl Kline and Earl Gentry, Stephenson's alleged companions, who are charged with Stephenson with conspiracy to kidnap, also pleaded not guilty. The trial date was not set.

During the war, Col. Downing was attached to the staff of General Custer, whose heroic stand at the battle of the Big Horn several years later made him the country's greatest hero of Indian warfare in the west. It was the custom for commanding officers to bring the confederate battle flags to the purpose in Washington. Col. Downing and Col. Cook of Gen. Custer's staff had taken captured colors to Washington and were at their hotel when they noticed in a newspaper that Lincoln would attend the performance at the Ford theater that night. They decided to stay and see the play, and secured seats in the front of the parquet, almost directly under President Lincoln's box.

The audience did not realize what had happened at once and then there was great confusion. The two colonels, being army officers of senior rank, naturally offered their assistance at once and it was accepted by those with the President. The help carried the limp form of the great Lincoln out of the theatre.

The next morning, 60 years ago on April 15, the world was startled by the news that Abraham Lincoln was dead. All now living who were old enough to remember events of that time will recall the universal mourning of the nation when the news was received.

His memory today is one of the guiding influences of the nation, and those who are young in these days will speak almost with awe in the time before they are old when they tell of having once known people who had seen the great Lincoln.

All the days of his life since the war, Col. Downing, who is himself one of the pleasantest and most likable of men, has never ceased to recall on the 15th of April the pang he felt when he heard of Abraham Lincoln's death, and he has never ceased to be grateful that he was chosen as one from many millions who was privileged to give his tenderest aid to his President when the great man needed help as he had never needed it before.

Chicago, April 17.—An affidavit signed by Mrs. Stella Costigan Carson of Linden, Iowa, a former employee of Mrs. Emma Nelson McClintock, has been brought to Chicago by attorneys representing relatives of the McClintock family seeking to set aside the will of Mrs. McClintock's son "Billy" which left the million dollar estate to William D. Shepherd. The latter, the boy's fosterfather, is charged with the murder of young McClintock by typhoid inoculation.

Mrs. Carson in her affidavit affirmed that she first saw Mr. and Mrs. Shepherd in the McClintock home in Chicago and that a maid told her they had come uninvited. She alleged that Shepherd had persuaded Mrs. McClintock to build a home in Bay View, Texas, where Mrs. McClintock first became ill, her death occurring soon after her return from Texas sixteen years ago. ### DIXON MAN, WHO HELPED LINCOLN, HAD A BIRTHDAY

Col. O. J. Downing, Ill., Was Ninety Years On Easter.

Col. O. J. Downing of this city, whose serious illness has been a source of much concern on the part of his many friends, long a leading citizen of Dixon celebrated his ninetieth birthday last Sunday, Easter, and while his health was such as to forbid his receiving callers on that occasion, the best wishes and congratulations of all of his friends were expressed in various ways.

April 14 is a date scarcely less memorable in the Downing family than the birthday anniversary of Col. Downing, as on that date in 1863 Abraham Lincoln was assassinated in Ford's theater, Washington, and Col. Downing was seated near the president's box at the time and helped carry the wounded president out of the theatre.

PATRICK DREW, PIONEER, DIED THURSDAY EVE

Long Life Ended at 10 O'clock; Funeral Sunday.

Patrick Drew, one of Dixon's oldest pioneers and veterans of the Civil War passed away at 10 o'clock Thursday night at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Elmer Jones, 710 Third street, after an illness of five months duration, gangrene being the immediate cause of his death. Funeral services will be held at the home at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon and at St. Patrick's Catholic church at 2:30, with burial in Oakwood.

Mr. Drew was born in Ireland, March 14, 1842, coming to Dixon with his parents when he was four years old. During the intervening 79 years this city was his home, except for the years he spent in the service of the United States army, in which he enlisted at the age of 22, serving four years, and he was one of the most widely known men of the city, who will be missed from his daily walks. He was married to Miss Mary Kerrigan of this city just before the War of the Rebellion, and the faithful wife and six children remain to mourn his death. The children are: Mrs. E. C. Jones, Mrs. Frank Duffy, Mrs. Herman Mack, Frank, John and James Drew.

Following a carefully planned investigation which has been in progress for three months in which Sheriff Elliott C. Risley of Lee County, Deputy Sheriff George Banning of Ogle County and Deputies Harry Baldwin and Harry Rose, Winnebago county, have been the prime investigators, today revealed the capture of three members of what is believed to have been one of the best organized gangs of thieves in this section of the country. At least two robberies in this county, the Moler store at West Brooklyn and the Archer general store at Compton are attributed to their activities, it is alleged.

First Arrest Wed. Ago.
Early last week John Taylor, alias J. H. Taylor and wife were arrested in their flat at Rockford by Deputies Baldwin and Rose of the Winnebago county sheriff's office. Sheriff Risley and Deputy George Banning were on the scene and assisted in removing two big automobiles loaded with silks, ready made wearing apparel, dynamite, nitro-glycerine and much other loot to the county jail.

In questioning the pair individually, little light was thrown on the manner in which they had come in possession of the articles. Taylor admitted that he had not worked for a period of about six months, after that shooting craps, and that his wife was employed in a knitting mill in Rockford.

Local Official in Raid.
Friday morning of last week, Sheriff Risley, Deputy George Banning and William Rose conducted a raid on a flat building in Rockford and uncovered considerable more loot, some of which was identified and about a dozen clothing taken from the John Archer general store at Compton. Three of the members of the gang are in custody in Rockford, it was learned today. John Taylor, alias J. H. Taylor, aged 28; his uncle, Richard Taylor, alias Joseph Miller, aged 55 and John Schumaker, alias John Myers, alias Jerome Meyers, aged 28, are being held. The Taylors are former residents of Spring Valley and La Salle, Ill. The Schumaker was a former member of the Spring Valley Wildcats football team. Schumaker's home is said to be in Chicago.

Archer Caps Identified.
At the time of the raid on the flat building, Schumaker and Dick Taylor wore caps which were identified as some of the stock of $1,500 worth of goods taken from the Archer general store at Compton. John Taylor is alleged to have made a partial confession in which he implicated his uncle, Dick Taylor and Schumaker after they had been arrested. The latter pair, however, have denied implicitly in the robbery and claim not to know Taylor.

Stolen Car Found.
Through the investigation conducted last week a new Jordan touring car stolen from a garage at Holcomb and belonging to the railroad station agent, was recovered about three miles west of Mendota, where it had been left in a farmer's corn crib. The car was said to be one of three used in transporting the cargo of dry goods and clothing stolen from a store near Galva, Ill. The machine broke down west of Mendota. It is said, about two weeks ago and the strangers towed it into the farmer's yard, represented themselves to be traveling merchandisers, secured permission to leave the car until they could return, and abandoned it.

Among the loot taken at the Taylor home and the flat where Schumaker and the elder Taylor made their home, are said to be articles stolen from many parts of northern Illinois and southern Wisconsin. One merchant from a small town in southern Wisconsin identified several articles at the time that Dick Taylor and Schumaker were arrested.

Think Seven in Gang.
The authorities believe that the gang, which is thought to be composed of seven members, is not the cleverest that has operated in northern

ARRESTED IN ROCKFORD AS GANG MEMBERS

Indictment Expected by Winnebago Jury This Afternoon

Rockford, Ill., April 17.—With the recovery of $2,000 worth of merchandise and the arrest of three men alleged to have stolen it, Sheriff Atkinson declared today that a daring band of robbers had been broken up. Burglaries of general stores and garages at Monroe Center, Compton, Holcomb, Mendota and other villages are charged to the three men in custody. Richard Taylor, 55; John H. Taylor, 28, his nephew, both of Rockford and Louis Witt, alias Jerome Meyers, 26, of Chicago. They will probably be indicted by the grand jury this afternoon, officials state.

The Taylors are former residents of Spring Valley and La Salle, Ill. The Schumaker was a former member of the Spring Valley Wildcats football team. Schumaker's home is said to be in Chicago.

Archer Caps Identified.
At the time of the raid on the flat building, Schumaker and Dick Taylor wore caps which were identified as some of the stock of $1,500 worth of goods taken from the Archer general store at Compton. John Taylor is alleged to have made a partial confession in which he implicated his uncle, Dick Taylor and Schumaker after they had been arrested. The latter pair, however, have denied implicitly in the robbery and claim not to know Taylor.

Stolen Car Found.
Through the investigation conducted last week a new Jordan touring car stolen from a garage at Holcomb and belonging to the railroad station agent, was recovered about three miles west of Mendota, where it had been left in a farmer's corn crib. The car was said to be one of three used in transporting the cargo of dry goods and clothing stolen from a store near Galva, Ill. The machine broke down west of Mendota. It is said, about two weeks ago and the strangers towed it into the farmer's yard, represented themselves to be traveling merchandisers, secured permission to leave the car until they could return, and abandoned it.

Among the loot taken at the Taylor home and the flat where Schumaker and the elder Taylor made their home, are said to be articles stolen from many parts of northern Illinois and southern Wisconsin. One merchant from a small town in southern Wisconsin identified several articles at the time that Dick Taylor and Schumaker were arrested.

THE NARROW WAY—
The Way of the Cross—the Road to the Crown.
The tread of the ages has worn it down.
The toll-worn sandals; the foot that is bare;
But never the step of the selfish was there.

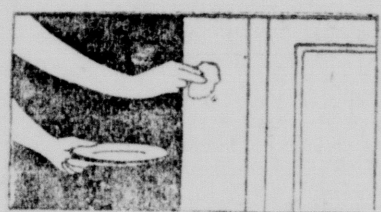

The pace of the soldier has turned it to dust,
And his sweat it is blood and his weapons are rust;
The rags of his valor are red in the dirt—
But never the spirit of martyr was hurt.

The feet of the little ones factory-bred
Are bleeding today from the round that they tread,
And their cries in the rut are forgotten of God,
Who treads in the path that the Master has trod?

O! Shame on our charity. Pile on our pains!
Is "giving" to part with our ill-gotten gains?
Let us forego the profits and shoulder the loss—
The Crown is well won on the Way of the Cross.

Menus for a Family

Tested by SISTER MARY.

Breakfast:
Orange juice, rice with thin cream, crisp whole wheat toast, creamed dried beef, milk, coffee.

Luncheon:
Apples stuffed with sausage, French fried sweet potatoes, lettuce sandwiches, bread pudding, milk, tea.

Dinner:
Clear soup, croutons, baked ham with pineapple, minted carrots and peas, maple custard, graham bread, milk, coffee.

An apple stuffed with very little meat combined with dried bread crumbs should be prepared for a child under school age. While pork is not as rich in iron as beef is, if it's well cooked it may occasionally be used in the diet of "juniors."

Rice as a breakfast is an innovation in many families, but quite worth trying. The following recipe using milk is an aid to the mother whose child does not drink his daily portion eagerly.

Rice as a Breakfast Food.
One cup rice, 2 teaspoons salt, 1½ cups boiling water, 2 cups milk.

Wash rice through several waters. Put water with salt in top of double boiler. When water is boiling rapidly add rice without stopping the bubbling. Boil five or ten minutes over the flame. Put over hot water, add milk and steam until rice is tender and milk is absorbed. It will take at least 40 minutes for the rice to cook and maybe longer if the rice is old. Serve with sugar and cream. Chopped dates or raisins can be added with the milk if desired.

Minted Carrots and Peas.
Eight new carrots, 5 tablespoons butter, 5 tablespoons sugar, 1 tablespoon minced mint leaves, 2 cups cooked peas, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons orange juice.

Scrape carrots and cut into slices ½ inch thick. Cook in slightly salted boiling water to cover for 15 minutes. Let the water boil away instead of draining the carrots. When carrots are almost dry add butter and shake saucepan until all are well coated with the butter. Mix sugar, orange juice and mint leaves and add to carrots. Stir with a fork and cook slowly until the sugar melts and the carrots are tender. Add peas and make very hot. Serve in a hot vegetable dish.

Maple Custard.
Three-fourths cup maple syrup, three cups milk, 3 eggs, 2 teaspoons cornstarch, ½ teaspoon salt, canned peaches.

Scald half the milk in top of double boiler. Beat eggs slightly. Add sirup, salt and cornstarch dissolved in a little cold milk to eggs and mix thoroughly. Add this to the hot milk and cook over hot water until thick. Add remaining milk and cook 10 minutes longer. Put half a peach drained from its juice in an individual mold, pour over custard and place on ice to chill.

Golden Wedding Walnut Couple

Walnut, Ill., April 16.—Mr. and Mrs. James Whitver celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Saturday at their commodious home in Walnut. Over one hundred guests were present and a most enjoyable day spent with these good people. At 1:30 p. m. a most elaborate dinner was served. Their children presented them with fifty dollars in gold. The others present gave them fifteen dollars in gold. Mrs. F. A. Parkins made the presentation speech. Mrs. Bessie Whitver Clayton responded for her mother and Miss Mildred Whitver responded for her father. They also received many other remembrances including a beautiful bouquet of yellow roses from the W. R. C.

James Whitver and Nancy Sargeant were married at Walnut April 11, 1876. They have long been residents of our village and number their friends by the score. They are the parents of the following children: Mrs. Bessie Clayton of Ohio, Frank Whitver, Glen Whitver, Mrs. Eva Bohm, Eugene Whitver and George Whitver of Walnut, Mrs. Mary Horton of Kansas City and Miss Mildred Whitver of Chicago. The children were all present to enjoy the day with them.

Miss Geisenheimer Sends Lovely Posters

Through the kindness of Miss Anna Geisenheimer, citizens of Dixon and vicinity have been afforded an opportunity of witnessing some very beautiful posters that were received yesterday from Paris, France, and are now on exhibit at the Dixon public library. Some time ago Miss Geisenheimer sent several posters advertising French touring resorts to Miss Morgan at the library, but a far more extensive collection, all real works of art, were received yesterday and added to the display. In a letter Miss Geisenheimer requests especially that the school children shall have an opportunity of viewing these attractive posters.

Broderick-Shadle Wedding Yesterday

Yesterday at 11 o'clock Rev. A. S. Moore, pastor of the M. E. church, performed the marriage ceremony uniting the lives of Edward H. Broderick and Miss Ethel May Shadle, both of Clinton, Iowa. The ceremony was performed at the parsonage to the Methodist church. The young couple drove over from Clinton, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Shellers of Clinton, who returned to that city, while the newlyweds left on the noon train for Chicago, to spend a honeymoon. Both are popular Clinton people and will receive the best wishes of their friends.

AUTOMOBILES IN THE SOUTH.

Some interesting statistics have recently come out of the south. Louisiana led all the other states in the union in the percentage of increase in automobile licenses issued during 1924. The average increase for the whole country was 16.8 percent. Louisiana's gain was 30.8 percent. New Mexico came next with 30.1 percent, Mississippi had 29.1 percent, and Florida had 28.4 percent.

All of the southern states, as a group, led other sections of the country. Twelve states showed a gain of 20 percent or more. Ten of these were southern states, if New Mexico and West Virginia are counted in that group.

These figures tell volumes about southern prosperity and development. They indicate an advance in the construction of good roads. They hint at building, investment and trade progress. They suggest attractive prospect to possible settlers, investors and motor tourists. They are figures of which to be proud.

HIDDEN GOLD.

The French people are said by bankers to have 2,000,000,000 francs in gold and silver, equal to about $400,000,000, withdrawn from circulation and hidden away.

This always happens when currency is inflated; the cheap paper circulates and the dear metal disappears. The French government wants the metal, especially the gold, for its treasury reserve, and is doing its best to get at the caches.

Traffic in gold is illegal. When the authorities find any one exchanging gold for its present value in paper, they confiscate the gold. Which as the owners argue, is hardly fair. They can get full value nearly four paper francs to one gold franc, outside of France, at present exchange rates. They think that if the government wants their gold, it should pay the current rate.

That would involve the government in technical difficulties and might retard the rise in value of the paper money. But the present procedure looks like robbery, no less than the procedure of the German government in paying off with depreciated paper marks the war bonds its people had bought with gold.

America, the one important country today on a gold basis, should realize more than ever value of sound money.

OUTLAWING EVOLUTION.

Tennessee joins the anti-Darwinian movement, with a law forbidding the teaching of evolution in the public schools.

That may be all right, whatever one thinks of the theory of evolution. Children in the common schools, at least, are not competent to understand the theory and pass judgment on it. From a strictly educational viewpoint, it may be a mistake to bar presentation of the evolutionary view in high schools and colleges. Educated persons should at least know what the theories of Darwin and Huxley are, and what facts they are based on—which is probably more than most legislators know.

However that may be, when the governor of Tennessee says, in his message accompanying the signed bill, that evolution is "at variance with the teachings of man's creation as related in the bible," he is letting himself in for a lot of controversy.

For one thing, the bible is not a scientific text book in Tennessee schools. For another thing, many a clergyman will maintain that when God, as told in Genesis, "formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life," he did it not so crudely as a human sculptor working in clay, but as the divine creator and director of a long evolutionary process.

As for Eve being formed from one of Adam's ribs, ministers nowadays usually explain that as "symbolic." Many things in the scriptures, no doubt, are symbolic, so much so as to be beyond the ken of editors and law-makers.

CAKE-EATERS.

William Allen White finds it appropriate that an audience of students should applaud a screen presentation of Beau Brummel, who as White remarks was "the father of all cake-eaters." Blood is thicker than water, he finds, even in the present-day representatives of that breed.

Still, it isn't necessary to be quite so scornful and hopeless of contemporary youth, in spite of its cake-eating propensities and balloon trousers. The breed isn't hopelessly degenerate. It has no less applause for Robin Hood, and goes into ecstasy over the rough and heroic King Richard gnawing a hambone.

DRY INDIA?

India is thinking of going dry during the next 10 years, but she is planning a different method than the American one.

The United States, theoretically, went bone dry overnight. India, if she tries it, will do it more slowly.

Bombay, with a population of 20 millions, has just decided to adopt prohibition by progressive stages within the next decade, and this action, it is thought, will have a tremendous effect throughout all India.

Maybe India's method will work better than ours. As far as actual prohibiting is concerned, ours can stand a lot of improvement.

AUTOS.

Someone advances the idea that we have too many automobile concerns in America.

Perhaps you know of two makes of automobiles that differ only very slightly.

Yet each company must maintain separate plants, separate scientific staffs, and separate groups of officials.

Perhaps there is food for thought here.

TOM SIMS SAYS:

STRONG CHARACTER WILL BE FRANCE'S SALVATION

The trouble in France is just plain lying and cowardice—the common faults of cheap politicians everywhere.

The facts in regard to the French situation have been plain enough for years. The political leaders knew them, but they were afraid to tell them to the people. These politicians did not dare collect a normal fraction of the cost of the war out of current revenue as it went along. They borrowed it all, on the promise that the Germans would pay for it. After the war, they did the same thing with restoration expenses.

They were not even included in the budget as charges against the revenues or credit of France. Then, when collapse threatened and was only prevented by the acceptance of the Dawes plan, they still delayed telling the French people that the solvency of France depended on the payment of taxes so high that no French government can levy them and live.

The price of truth, in France, is the personal self-sacrifices of its office by the politician who tells it. Each one has waited for experience to reveal it instead.

Now it has come. The French people now know that there is no such thing as a victorious war. The successful and the defeated are alike losers, and both have to pay, by staggering taxes. Just because they have had cowardly politicians, the French have been the least trained, of advanced European nations, in the resolute paying of taxes. But there is no more resolute people in the world, in personal character.

Now that they have found out tardily what their leaders should have told them in time, they may turn first on their deceivers, but they will then turn also to the job, and do it. French politics may be nearly as stupid and cowardly as American politics, but French character is sound. That, finally, must be the salvation of France, as it has been of America.

A freak story from the Franco-American excavations at ancient Carthage brings also an interesting lesson in the psychology of labor.

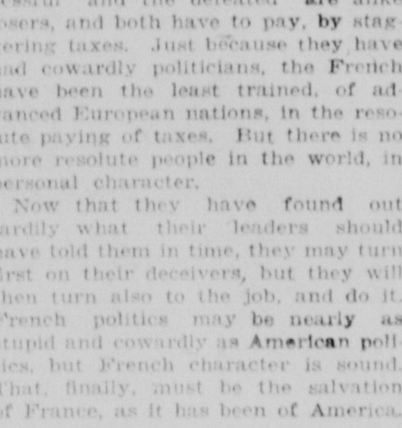

The workmen, like all Africans and most other people, were lazy and shirked the job. So the excavators put in moving pictures of the work in progress. Every digger worked like mad, and there was a rush of unpaid volunteers, all digging to get into the pictures.

That particular scheme would not work long, even in Africa. But the human nature of it is significant. Give workers wages and discipline, and you will get the necessary minimum of work out of them. Give them a personal interest, and you will get enthusiasm and energy.

That is why the "boss" works so hard himself, with nobody to make him do so. He has a personal interest. It is the reason the artist or scholar works without thought of reward.

Personal pride, personal interest, the sense of workmanship, these are the motive of all effort which goes beyond what fear, necessity or discipline can enforce. You cannot buy these things. But you can get them.

An American company. It is an

When Snitcher Snatch rolled out of the Muffin Man's back door and spilled some of the magic snuff out of the gold snuff-box that he had stolen from the Fairy Queen's uncle, Mister Whizz cried out, "There he is!" But just then the fairyman had to stop to sneeze because some of the magic snuff had gotten up his nose.

And when Nancy and Nick tried to say, "Where?" they started to sneeze, too, and by the time their sneezing party was over, Snitcher Snatch had jumped to his feet, grabbed his snuff box and run down the street.

Nobody knew all the damage the snuff had done. They didn't know about Mother Goose's feathers or the Miller Man's wheat and flour or about Mrs. John's birthday cake.

All they knew was that the Pie-man's pies had blown into the Muffin Man's shop, and that Snitcher Snatch had gone.

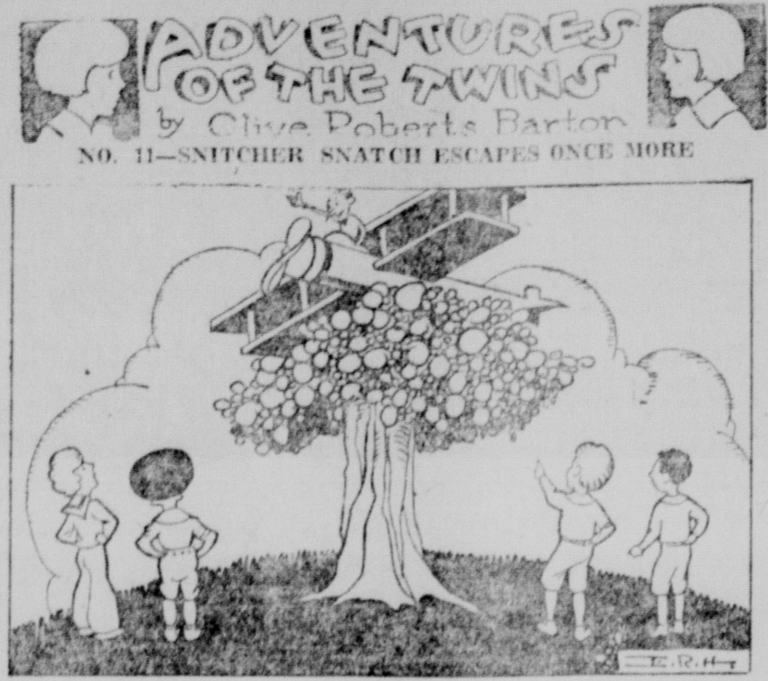

"Dear Me!" said Mister Whizz, blowing his nose loudly. "That rascal has got away again and we're as far as ever from catching him, and getting the magic snuff-box back. The Fairy Queen will wonder what has become of us."

"And your aeroplane?" said Nick. "Where do you suppose your aeroplane is, Mister Whizz?"

"Yes, where?" the little fairyman wanted to know. "If you tell me, I'll tell you. I've no more idea than Paddy's pig."

Daddy Gander Town was no different from any other town and there were always a lot of boys about—particularly about the pastry shop where lollypops were sold.

Instantly a dozen voices shouted:

"Good-bye, fellows," he called. "Sorry I can't stay to say goodbye to Mister Whizz and the Twins.

"We'll help you to hunt, Mister. We'll find your aeroplane for you."

And Jack Horner and Bobbie Shaftoe and Nimble Jack and Tom Tucker and Peter Peter Junior scattered in all directions to look for the lost aeroplane.

"If you see a had little goblin, catch him, too," called Nick after them.

An aeroplane isn't an easy thing to hide usually—that is, I mean, a regular one isn't.

But this aeroplane, being a fairy aeroplane, wasn't much bigger than a rocking chair.

The boys looked first of all in Mrs. John's orchard on Pippin Hill, then they looked behind the old mill, next they looked in Mrs. Spratt's cistern that had gone dry. After that they looked behind every chicken coop and rain barrel and fence in Daddy Gander Town.

But no trace of the fairy aeroplane could they find—or of Snitcher Snatch, the goblin.

They were all standing under a big button-ball tree wondering what to do next, when they heard a buzzing sound overhead.

There was the fly aeroplane parked in the tree! And over the edge of it a long nose was hanging. Snitcher Snatch was grinning down at them.

"Good-bye, fellows," he called. "Sorry I can't stay to say goodbye to Mister Whizz and the Twins. I'd take them along, but I'm too much crowded. Goodbye!"

And with a buzz, rattle, buzz, he flew off.

An American tourist is supposed to go away from home for the purpose of having just what he already had better at home. So he must have American food and service. American ways of getting around, and American jazz with his meals. At least, so the caterers to American tourist trade assume.

However, if these comfortable absurdities will attract tourists to Mexico, they will find other things to make it worth while, too.

With te selection limited to that group you can see that it was impossible to select an American as a representative New York boy.

Say what you will of New York's crowded traffic it is the only city in which I have lived where sidewalks are kept unobstructed. Despite great building operation, the rearing of old buildings and the rearing of new ones, the pedestrian still finds a place on the sidewalk, either under a protective canopy or over a raised platform. He is a nephew of the late president and lives at Columbus, O. A student of an abnormal psychology and a prospective medical student, he had a note book full of observations of strange characters encountered on his trip.

The other evening it was my misfortune to get into a crowded BMT subway train during the rush hour. I tried to get off at Canal street, but the surging crowd swept me far back into the car and the train had reached De Kalb avenue in Brooklyn before I could get off.

Another young fellow caught in a similar situation was much cleverer. Seeing that he couldn't get off, he yelled "Stand back, a woman has fainted!" As the mob momentarily halted he rushed off the train.

Once in a while the subway mob can be halted for a moment by a fainting woman, but on two occasions I have seen women collapse on subway platforms with scant attention from the hurrying throng.

Is Today Your Birth Anniversary?

FRIDAY, APRIL 17 — Persons born this day are too "easy going." They should learn to stand up for their rights. They would be very successful financially if it were not for this trait. They also lack self-confidence, yet they have magnetic personalities. The chances are you will marry young.

Do it today. Tomorrow might be too late. Insure that automobile. Hal will take care of it for you. He is on the job at the Dixon Loan and Building Ass'n. from 8 to 6. Drop in anytime.

DEATH PENALTY FOR MUNDING IS ASKED BY STATE

Riding Master's Case May Go to Jurors Tomorrow P.M.

Wheaton, Ill., April 16—State's Attorney Chauncey W. Reed announced this morning in his closing argument, which he expected to make this afternoon, he would ask for the death penalty for George Munding, society riding master, who is standing trial in the circuit court here before Judge William J. Fulton, for the murder of his common law wife, Mrs. Julia Abbott Douglas.

The prosecutor will be followed by Assistant State's Attorney Win G. Knoch. If time will permit Attorney Charles Hadley, who together with Clarence Darrow, represent Munding, will also address the jury this afternoon. Attorney Darrow has reserved tomorrow morning for his plea. By tentative agreement with the court each side is to be allowed approximately four hours. The case will go to the jury tomorrow afternoon.

Blackened Her Eyes.

Rebuttal witnesses were called by the state today. H. J. Helbe, who stated he was the proprietor of Tuxedo Hotel in 1919, where the slain woman is said to have lived for five weeks in the spring of that year, was the first. He saw Munding in the lobby of the hotel, either coming in or going out—he could not recall which—at one time, and just before he left Mr. Helbe claims he saw Mrs. Douglas appear with both eyes blackened and her face bruised and cut. Attorney Darrow objected to introduction of this testimony on the ground that it had already been gone over, Munding having admitted that he blackened the eyes of his sweetheart at Tuxedo Hotel in the spring of 1919, but Judge Fulton overruled the objection.

Scott Given Ninety Day Reprieve Wednesday

Springfield, Ill., April 16—Governor Len Small this morning granted Russell Scott a 90 day reprieve to save him from hanging tomorrow.

Scott's lawyer had no sooner reached the executive office when the announcement was made. The Governor had indicated yesterday that he would not interfere if the supreme court acted.

A divided court and not lack of supreme court's failure to act today on Russell Scott's petition for a writ of supersedeas. Justices Stone of Peoria and Dunn of Charleston are absent, and the remaining five, it was indicated, wished to delay a decision until their return.

This view of the case is given credence by the fact that the record in the Scott case is no more voluminous than many other records the court has acted on, in less time. Because of this development, and the inability of the absent judges to attend, Governor Small granted the 90 day reprieve.

PLOWS SAME WEST BROOKLYN FIELDS AFTER FIFTY YEARS

Lapse of Half Century Recalled This Spring By M. E. Long.

West Brooklyn—M. E. Long has been caring for the work of his father during his illness. On April 13, this year he plowed his garden which brought it to mind that he had plowed the same garden in April 1875, just 50 years previous. At that time he had a team of black horses, just as he had used this year on the plow. One of the horses used in the first plowing was one which he purchased from the government after it had been service in the army during the civil war. This is some stretch between plowings as Elmer had not plowed the patch during the 50 years time.

Mrs. Mayme Bryant was up from Rock Falls the latter part of the week and took her piano from the hotel where it had been stored after the sale of the building.

H. S. Strawbridge was here from the vicinity of Ashton Tuesday calling on business friends.

Power farmers raise more grain

Farmers with large grain acreages always turn to tractor power. It enables them to prepare more acres—in less time, with less labor and at less cost. Government surveys show that one man with a tractor does the work of two or more men and ten to fifteen horses!

The economical kerosene-burning HART-PARR will prove a paying investment from the start. In addition to plowing, discing and seeding, the HART-PARR is especially adapted to harvesting as its surplus power enables it to pull two or more binders from daylight to dark. A new detachable power take-off makes it a complete harvesting plant.

The HART-PARR is built for continuous service. Many 24 years old are still in operation. It is powerful and sturdy enough to do all your own work and that of your neighbors as well. 330 owners of HART-PARRS say that they average $629.00 yearly doing spare-time custom work.

This durable, long-lived tractor is made in three sizes, for the small, medium and large farm. Come in and let us demonstrate the improved models, with enclosed drive, disc clutch, detachable power take off and greatly increased power for belt and field work. We don't hesitate to personally guarantee the HART-PARR, for we know it will make good on any farm.

Call or Write For This FREE Book

This big book will convince you of the economy of power farming, and also show you how to get the most for your money when you come to buy a tractor. Contains scores of interesting illustrations and hundreds of helpful facts for the farmer who would like to grow bigger, sturdier and more profitable crops. Just call or write for a copy—it's free!

Nobody Loves You

It is impossible to get anywhere if you are a crab. Nobody loves you. To be successful you must have a kindly, lovable disposition. You can not have this with an unhealthy liver and stomach. They don't go together. May's Wonderful Remedy has given complete and permanent results in thousands of such cases. Our advice to everyone troubled in this way, especially when accompanied with bloating in the stomach, is to try this remedy. It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and slays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments. Sold everywhere. At all druggists.

Good Thoughts for Good People

Lord, when saw we thee an hungered, and fed thee? or thirsty, and gave thee drink? Or when saw we thee sick, or in prison, and came unto thee? And the King shall answer, Verily I say unto you, Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me.

—MATTHEW.

Then, brother man, fold to thy heart thy brother!

For where love dwells, the peace of God is there:

To worship rightly is to love each other:

Each smile a hymn, each kindly deed a prayer.

Follow, with rev'ren steps, the great example

Of Him whose holy work was doing good:

So shall the wide earth seem our Father's temple,

Each loving life a psalm of gratitude.

—WHITTIER.

Live pure, speak true, right wrong, follow the King—Else, whither born?

—TENNYSON.

He who would receive the tokens of Christ's loving presence must like-wise give in kind. It is a mutual and reciprocal obligation, and to him who gives of his affection and compassion shall there be returns the same Christ-like qualities in abundant measure.

He who knows that God's beloved—children of a common Father—are never strangers to one another become bound in a brotherhood of eternal goodness; and he will always know himself to be in the company of the righteous.

—THE CHRISTIAN SCIENCE JOURNAL.

We believe in the brotherhood of men, because we believe in the fatherhood of God.

—CALVIN COOLIDGE.

The era of Christianity—peace, brotherhood, the Golden Rule as applied to governmental matters—is yet to come, and when it comes, then, and then only, will the future of nations be sure.

—KOSSUTH.

State Wide War Against Wolves Has Endorsement

Springfield, Ill., April 16.—A state war against wolves that have invaded western Illinois counties and are killing farmers' livestock was approved today by Governor Small, who received a delegation from Pike, Adams and Hancock counties, bringing first hand information of the extent of the damage the wolves do.

A bill appropriating $10,000, it was decided, will be introduced in the general assembly, to provide funds for the campaign of extermination that is started in cooperation with national government agencies.

H. C. McCarrel, president of the Pike County Sheep and Wool Growers' Association, spokesman for the delegation said that farmers in the western counties are losing thousands of dollars a week through the slaughter by wolves and coyotes of pigs, spring lambs and calves.

The FLAPPER WIFE

by Beatrice Burton © 1925 NEA SERVICE INC.

THE STORY SO FAR
GLORIA GORDON, 20-year-old beauty, marries DICK GREGORY for the money she thinks he has.

She has made up her mind that marriage for her will mean clothes and good times . . . but no children. She scores BILL HOLGREN's wife, LOLA, who works hard to bring up three babies.

Dick tells her he can't afford a maid, and borrows MAGGIE, his mother's maid, to teach Gloria to cook. Gloria refuses to learn.

STANLEY WAYBURN, an actor whom Gloria once loved, calls on her. Dick sees him leaving the house, and Gloria tells Dick that he is an interior decorator.

Dick is confined to the house with a cold. His secretary, MISS BRIGGS, comes there to work with him. While they are busy Gloria plans a housewarming. When the party is at its height Stanley Wayburn comes, and Dick recognizes in the actor the man he saw leaving his house. He is sure Gloria lied to him.

Later Gloria finds Stan making love to MYRA GAIL, a married friend. She recklessly takes too many drinks, and while she is dancing with DR. JOHN SEYMOUR, the husband of MAY SEYMOUR, who is in love with JIM CAREWE, Gloria faints away.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

GLORIA lay there without moving. . . . But she seemed to be going around and around . . . and around. There was a sound like rushing wind in her ears.

Above it she heard Myra Gail's high voice.

"Our hostess seems to have passed out of the picture," she was saying. "I thought she was drinking more than she could stand!"

Then Gloria felt Dick's arms around her.

Without opening her eyes she knew they were Dick's arms. Strong as steel. . . .

"She'll be all right in a minute. . . . she was a bit dizzy," Gloria heard Dr. John's kind voice. "I tell you, Dick, these girls shouldn't drink! They can't get away with it. Nobody can!"

Dick made no answer. He picked his wife up in his arms.

"Goodnight, Sappho!" the girl heard Bill Hough call in his clownish way. And she knew that Dick was carrying her upstairs.

She felt him tugging at the snaps on her dress. . . . pulling off her slippers and stockings.

And then, at last, she was in bed. On the cool, delicious feeling of the pillows. . . . the comfort of the quiet room!

Gloria half opened her eyes. Dick was hanging her clothes neatly over the back of a chair. . . . He really was a dear, after all.

She tried to tell him so. But she was too tired. . . . If only the sick feeling in her stomach would go away! Ugh!

WHAT a ghastly party!

And what a fool she had made of herself!

If only she hadn't asked Stan Wayburn to come!

For Gloria knew that if she hadn't been so set about Wayburn and Myra, she would never have taken those last two cocktails, and then fainted!

That was the effect Wayburn had always had upon her. . . . to make her do wild, reckless things that she didn't want to do! Things that she was ashamed of afterward!

Dick was worth 10 Stanley Wayburns. . . . And yet, Dick couldn't make her glow and tremble by simply clasping her hand, as Stan could!

And Gloria wondered if she would care if she came upon Dick kissing another woman.

She supposed she would. . . . She wasn't sure. But then Dick wouldn't do such a thing!

There floated up to her sounds of the merry-making downstairs.

The jazz band was playing "Tea

Dick picked up his wife and carried her upstairs to her room.

for two" again.

Someone was singing it in a husky tenor. . . . Stan Wayburn's voice!

"Nobody near us."

"To see you, or hear us. . . ."

GLORIA clonched her little hands.

The nails bit into her palms.

In her mind's eye she could see Myra Gail watching Stan with her long gray eyes. And Stan, no doubt, was singing the love-sick words straight at her!

Well, Gloria made up her mind, she'd soon put a stop to that! "Dick!" she called sharply. Her mind was almost clear again.

"Well," he answered. He was standing looking out of the window.

"Don't you think you ought to go down to our guests?" Gloria asked.

"Tell Maggie to serve supper right away. Then they'll go home. I'm so tired of the noise I could die!"

Get rid of them all, please!"

Dick came over to her. He sat down on the edge of the bed.

"Gloria," he said harshly, "I'm going to ask you a question. And I want the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth! Get me?"

Gloria nodded. She held her breath.

"This fellow Wayburn. . . . How long have you known him?"

"Oh, a couple of years. I used to have a sort of kid's crush on him," Gloria answered.

"And you still have?" Dick asked.

"You still have a crush on him?" Gloria closed her eyes.

"I wouldn't answer your foolish question!" she said. "Look here, Dick Gregory, what do you think you're doing. . . . giving me the third degree?"

Dick set his square jaw. Suddenly he seized Gloria in those flexible steel hands of his. He shook her.

"Answer me!" he said. "You are in love with him, aren't you?"

Gloria gave a little scream.

"Oh, you're hurting me!" she cried.

Dick loosened his hold. There were white marks on the pale-rose flesh

sunk down upon the floor
